Good Athletic Display At Peace Day Celebration

The Peace day celebration staged by the St Andrews Society and the "C" squadron of the 19th Alberta Dragoons proved a most enjoyable one. The program contained many interesting and novel features, and the competition was keen. The attendance at the grounds left much to be desired, and until three o'clock it was not possible to proceed with the program—but from that time until after six there was a lively succession of events. The program was opened by an obstacle race for boys, for which it was necessary to run three heats. An obstacle race for men then followed—which, like that for the boys, included crawling under a set of ropes running over a tipping plank, getting through fence, sack, and a ring of ladder, and threading a needleful of cotton—proved no small feat of endurance and steady nerve. The mounted events were all of high merit, in these the two boys Ernest Pitman Jr., and Raoul StPierre displayed remarkably fine horsemanship, well worthy of a special mention. A team of twelve married men outpulled the benedicts after a well contested struggle. The most interesting item on the program was the mounted musical chairs; in which the riders had to circle round a square until the music stopped then they broke into the square and dismounting sat on a chair, holding their mounts by the lines. This proved very exciting, the second and fourth prizes being won by boy riders.

A moving picture show in the I. O. O. F. Hall, followed by dance bringing the day to a close.

WEDDING BELLS

BURTON—CARGILL

The home of Mr and Mrs William Cargill was the scene of a pretty wedding ceremony, Wednesday July 18, at 3 p.m. Miss Mabel Cargill being joined in matrimony to Herbert A. Burton, of Vancouver, by Rev. W. Millar of Chauvin. The bride's sister, Grace, acted as bride's maid; and Charles Cargill Jr. performed the duties of best man. A party of twenty-three persons were present to the ceremony and were guests to the sumptuous wedding breakfast served later.

Mr and Mrs H. A. Burton were the recipients of a large number of beautiful presents. The following day they left for Abernethy, Sask., where they will take up residence. They are followed by a host of good wishes from everybody in this district.

Death of Lila Anderson

A gloomy was cast over the Edin-glassie district last Wednesday when it became known that little Lila Anderson had died.

Lila was eight years of age, daughter of Mr and Mrs J. T. Anderson, being the youngest child. She had recently been sick with scarlet fever, and had received attention from two doctors, but despite every care and nursing, failed to make recovery. She is survived by five sisters and one brother.

The burial was conducted at the Roros churchyard, Thursday July 19. A memorial service will be held at a later date, when quarantine conditions permit.

Chauvin Party Visit Scott Experimental Station

A very hearty reception was accorded by the officials of the Scott experimental Station to a party of Chauvin people who visited there Monday July 9th.

Mr. and Mrs G. M. Saul, Messrs H. Witt, G. Gibb, P. H. Perry were taken to the farm, where they spent a very profitable day, seeing the grain plots, gardens, orchards, buildings, and live stock.

The caragana hedges lent a very attractive appearance to the farm and the garden and orchard plots. It was particularly interesting to note that considerable success had been made in the culture of the native wolf willow into hedges. The growth of the wolf willow is slower than the caragana but makes a good hedge, and when trimmed has a beautiful appearance. The live dogwood also makes good hedges but does not grow so high.

Success in the growth of small fruits has been attained at Scott by apart. Half way between these hedges

NEW FEATURE FOR THE CHAUVIN FAIR

Mr A. S. Morrison met the directors of the Chauvin Agricultural Society at a special meeting and outlined in detail the plans of the Live Stock Branch of the Dominion government in holding "Get of Bull" Competitions in conjunction with the local fairs. The plans were approved by the Society and it was decided to include this in the 1923 Chauvin Fair. A total amount of $182 in prizes is therefore being offered subject to the following:

GET OF BULL COMPETITION

Each entry must include three animals, not necessarily the property of one owner, but all three the progeny of one pure-bred bull.

Entries shall be confined to animals not over twenty-four months of age and not under twelve months of age on September 1st of the year in which the competition is held.

Name and number of Sire must be furnished at time of entry.

The entry fee shall be $3.00

CLASS A. DAIRY CLASS

Open to heifers, grade or pure-bred, and to pure-bred males.

(All exhibits must be sired by Dairy Sire. A Shorthorn sire can be used in the dairy class, provided it is a dual purpose animal).

Prizes: 1st $18.00; 2nd $1.00; 3rd $14.00; 4th $12.00; 5th $10.00; 6th $8.00; 7th $6.00

CLASS B. BEEF CLASS

Open to heifers, grade or pure-bred, to steers, and to pure-bred males.

Prizes 1st $20.00; 2nd $18.00; 3rd $16.00; 4th $15.00; 5th $12.00; 6th $10.00; 7th $8.00.

More Special Prizes

Mr. Gordon Cunningham has offered two special prizes for the Chauvin Agricultural Fair, August 1st: For the best male or female pure bred or grade Aberdeen Angus Calf sired by registered Aberdeen Angus Bull; 1st $3.00; 2nd $2.00

Correction

With reference to the special prize offered by W. T. Watson for the best boy or girl rider; we are asked to state the age limit of entrants is at twelve years—not fifteen as appears in the prize lists.

Refreshments

Lunches will be served at the booth on fair grounds by the agricultural society on fair day.

Eat your lunch at the refreshment booth on fair day; you will be sure to enjoy it. The committee in charge of this department are sparing no effort to provide enjoyable lunches for all comers and will appreciate your patronage.

* * *

Donations of cakes and cream or milk will be greatly appreciated by the refreshment committee of the Agricultural Society. Donations may be left at the booth on morning of fair.

One great source of trouble is that people can talk faster than they can think.

LOCAL CROP REPORT

We have experienced a continuation of frequent local electrical storms accompanied by heavy rains and some hail with hot weather alternating the storms. These storms have been so frequent that it comes as a surprise to learn that there are at least three small areas, totalling perhaps 90 square miles where moisture is needed. One of these is south of Ribstone, the other two areas are just north and south of Battle River, parts of Dina and Roros districts. There has been no material increase in hail damage during the past week, but some grain has been twisted by wind and rain.

We are informed by a Roros farmer that the average number of spikelets on the wheat this year is sixteen, instead of the customary eighteen. This he attributes to the hot weather in the early part of June when the early This, he adds, will not determine the yield for this depends upon the number of kernels that develop from each spikelet.

Some reports of scald, particularly on the oats, have reached this office.

Or the whole crop prospects are at present very rosy, and a conservative estimate of the indicated yield for the district may be placed at twenty bushels to the acre.

This Wheat Stands Six Feet

A sample of Kubanka Amber Durham Wheat is now on display at the Chauvin Chronicle office. It stands nearly six feet high and has made a splendid stand in a forty acre field on the farm of Stanley Carted at Artland. It certainly looks good for a yield of fifty bushels to the acre. It is a very early wheat and it yields very high. The straw contains a high proportion of sugar and is keenly relished by cattle.

J. Casey of Artland also has a very fine stand of this wheat.

Wrestling & Boxing Match

A mixed bout of five rounds, ten minutes to each round is to be staged in the I.O.O.F. Hall, on Saturday, July 28th at 8.30 p.m., sharp, between Jack Romanson, the middle-weight champion of Saskatchewan, and Battling McMaster, the heavyweight battler of Edmonton. Battling McMaster, is to do the fighting and Romanson will do no striking, but confine himself to wrestling. Admission: Gents $1 and ladies 50c.

Ribstone Ladies Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary will hold an Ice Cream Social on the 27th of July in the afternoon, near the New Ribstone Bridge. All kinds of outdoor sports will be on the program. Come and spend an enjoyable afternoon. Everyone welcome.

Receiving Entries

Mr P. H. Perry, secretary of the Chauvin Agricultural Society will be in attendance at the Chauvin Chronicle office all day, Saturday, July 28 for the purpose of receiving entries.

Movies On Fair Night

There will be no moving pictures next Monday night; a splendid show will be given Fair night (Wednesday).

Will Prosecute Produce Merchants

The Department of Agriculture will commence prosecution, shortly, of those produce merchants who have not applied for or taken out licenses under the provisions of the Produce Merchants Act.

J. P. StPierre Auction Sale

An auction sale of household effects and property consisting of a house, stable and three lots in Chauvin is announced by George Reynolds. The sale will be held Saturday July 28th.

THE BOY SCOUT TROOP

At last week's parade of the Troop, the examination for the Tenderfoot Badge took place. No boy is a Scout until he possesses a Tenderfoot Badge. Of those that set for the test, the test, the following were successful. They are placed in order of merit.

Harker Saul, Jimmie Borregard, Ernie Pitman, Lon. D'Albertanson, Willie Borregard, Elmer Hass.

Some good papers were handed in, and the marking was a difficult task. The boys have to obtain 85 per cent to pass.

The official investiture as tenderfoot Scout will be held at the next parade. The whole troop must make a special effort to turn out. It is expected that the remainder of the troop will pass for the Tenderfoot Badge shortly.

Particulars regarding camp, will also be given out at this parade. So, follows: "Be prepared."

Church Note

A Service of Public Baptism of infants and children will be held in the Union Church, Chauvin, on Friday afternoon, the 3rd of August 1923, when the Sacrament of Holy Baptism will be administered by Dr. G. E. Lloyd, Bishop of Saskatchewan.

Will all those parents who desire their children baptised please write or call see me concerning this matter. The last date of application which can be entertained is 31st of July 1923.

Time is short, and I make an earnest request that this matter be taken up by those who have unbaptized members in their families. It is impossible for one to ascertain through personal visitations, the number of children who should be brought to receive this Sacrament, and you are requested to help this matter by writing or calling.

Coal Conference

The conference on coal rates from Alberta to Ontario was held the past week in Edmonton and was attended by C. A. McGrath, Chairman of the Canadian Fuel Board; Sir Henry D. C. Coleman, western Vice-President of the C.P.R.; Premier Greenfield, H. Stuchbury and A. Chard of the Provincial government, and a number of operators and others. The question of a rate to Ontario market that would the Alberta coal in the East on a competitive basis with the American product was discussed. An agreement was reached by the railway officials to give a special rate on a certain limited quantity for experimental purposes. An announcement will be made shortly in this connection by Premier Greenfield.

Splendid Work Done By Neglected Children Dept

Last week we promised to give our readers an epitome of the work of the Department of Neglected Children (Alberta).

The machinery of the department is most simple. In cities a Childrens Shelter is provided, whilst in smaller municipalities the work is done through inspectors and matrons appointed by the department.

The wards of the department are of two classes; first, the neglected and dependent; second, the delinquent. During the last year 453 dependent children have been cared for by being given shelter and the protecting care that will enable them to grow into good men and women. During the same period 443 delinquent boys and girls were tried by the 70 Juvenile Court Commissioners. A total of 896 children cared for by the department during the past year. In addition to the cases referred to above a large number of cases have been settled out of court, this being done in every instance where satisfactory adjustment can be made without court proceedings.

These delinquent 420 boys and 23 girls, although they may have made serious mistakes, theft and damage to property being the most common offences, are not tried as criminals, nor in the same court room as older offenders.

In the majority of cases first offenders are handed back to the parents after a friendly talk with both parents and children; or placed in charge of a good probation officer, whose duty it is to take special interest in the child. It has been found that in the majority of cases these methods have proved satisfactory and only when all other means have failed have these delinquents been confined to institutions.

Much of the success of the Department has been due to two simple but bedrock principles. Fundamental among these is the belief that when a boy or girl has become delinquent, it is not too late, if he or she be normal, to be redeemed to reputable manhood or womanhood. Environment counts. We know the discussions that there has been upon this question. The failure of parents or teacher to make a decent man or of promising youth has produced a race of skeptics concerning the power of environment.

They insist that the original tendency of the twig will persist in spite of any bending pressure that may be brought to bear upon it. Experienced social reformers, upon the contrary, lay a great emphasis on influences surrounding the young life. They tell us that a boy need not necessarily be lax because his father and mother did not have a spotless record, or because he himself has fallen into delinquency.

There is great hope in this belief. A great humorist once declared, "If we all went far enough back we should find a Gallows Rampant on the family tree."

During the last few years, some

3,997 children, taken from all classes of homes, the progeny of every type of parents, have been placed out in foster homes, amid good surroundings.

The experiment in every case, has not been a success, but the result in the great majority of instances leads to the conviction that environment is the determining factor. "He is not a bad boy," said the Matron of a Children's Shelter, "but he has never seen any good." It is doubtful if the true story of the average delinquent could be more tritely expressed.

It has been said that every time a child stands in the Juvenile Court some adult should stand by his side or in his place. The department has spent a good deal of energy bringing to justice, parents, guardians, and other adults who in any way contribute to the neglect or delinquency of a child. It is not a common thing to see in our Juvenile Courts, men and women of mature age, charged with these offences. Sometimes severe penalties are imposed, the law providing for a fine of $100.00 or imprisonment up to a year. In many cases a severe reprimand or warning proves to be all that is necessary.

Of the 453 neglected children cared for during the past year, 230 were males and 233 were females. The great majority were under one year of age, whilst in each other year of age up to eighteen the average was 21. Of these children, 131 were left with their parents after the parents had been reprimanded; 21 were placed under the supervision of a probation officer; 50 were withdrawn or dismissed; 5 were sent to institutions and 246 were made wards of the department (of these 246, 73 were illegitimate).

In addition to all the figures above given a number of children are cared for by the city shelters at Edmonton, Calgary, Medicine Hat and Lethbridge under the provisions of section 5 of The Childrens Protection Act.

You can tell whether it is genuine cut-glass by the way it rings when you swat a fly on it.

Destruction Of Weeds On Saskatchewan Roads

Forty-one municipalities have notified the Saskatchewan Dept. of Agriculture that bylaws have been passed applying the recent amendment to "The Noxious Weeds Act" (Sask.), making provision for the destruction of weeds on road allowances.

For a number of years past councils of municipalities have been responsible for this work whereas by an amendment to The Noxious Weeds Act passed at a recent session of the legislature the owner or occupant of land the whole or part of which is cultivated or in crop must now destroy the weeds on half of road allowance adjacent to such lands. It is still the duty of the council to look after the weeds on road allowances not provided for in the above.

The amendment provides that the council may before the first day of May pass a bylaw providing for the above. It is then the duty of the weed inspector to notify owners to destroy such weeds within five days. In event of notice not been complied with the weeds may be removed at cost of land owner, and a penalty inflicted.

"Papa, did God make you?"
"Yes, child."
"And did he make Mamma?"
"Certainly: run away now."
"Did he make brother too?"
"Of course. Please don't bother me."
"Well, did he make me too?"
"Yes, yes. Why do you ask?"
"Or, I don't know. Seems to me he's doing better work lately."

A Game Of Cards At Sea

(By Mabel Herbert Urner)

"It's after eleven—we'll hardly have time for another rubber," declared Helen.

"Come to our stateroom," urged Mr. Dalmer, shuffling the cards, "We can play as late as we like down there."

"Thank you, not tonight," nudging Warren under the table. "I get a headache when I play too long."

"We'll have a game tomorrow," Warren drew out his wallet. "How does the score stand now?"

"That's two rubbers for us—615 points," Mr. Dalmer ran his pencil down the line of figures.

"At two cents a point that's twelve thirty," Warren counted out the money.

"You'll win it back tomorrow—and and more," laughed Mrs. Dalmer drawing her tulle scarf over her powdered shoulders.

"Let's have another drink," invited Mr. Dalmer as the lounge steward gathered up the empty glasses.

"No, I'll take a turn on deck," Warren pushed back his chair.

Out in the dark seclusion of the deserted deck, Helen's repressed resentment found expression.

"Twelve dollars! Dear, why did you let them make it two cents?"

"Oh well, if that's what they're used to playing for," pausing to relight his cigar, "you can't be a piker."

"We needn't have played that last rubber. If we'd stopped then you'd have lost only seven dollars."

"You're a bum sport. An evening of good bridge on shipboard is worth twelve bucks. Pay more'n that for a couple seats at the opera—and be bored stiff.

"They'd such luck with their dummies," taking his arm to keep up with his rapid strides. "He'd make it almost nothing—and every time she was long on that suit."

"Yes, we didn't stand much chance against that run of luck. In that last hand he made it hearts on only an ace and two small ones—but she plunked down the king, jack and three others. Jove, look at that moon."

The luminous crescent, gliding from behind a cloud, laid a searchlight path across the black sea.

But Helen was too regrettfully intent upon the loss of the twelve dollars to appreciate the witchery of the night.

"Ready to go down?" yawned Warren tossing his glowing cigar over the rail.

In the stateroom he undressed with the usual careless despatch. But Helen, still worrying over their loss, was brooding slow.

"They must have money," replacing her evening gown on its hanger in the wardrobe trunk. "Did you notice her diamonds? What business is he in?"

"From Boston, that's all I know," Warren thrust his wallet and letter of credit under his pillow. "Just met him in the smoking room."

"I don't care for her—she's so artificial. Oh, look where you've put your coat. And I had it pressed just before we sailed," rescuing his dinner jacket that he had crammed into the rack over his bed.

"These yellow plums are great" he was rummaging in a Bon-Voyage basket of fruit.

"Dear, don't eat any more tonight. All that dinner, and those sandwiches afterwards, and now fruit!"

"Now, I'm going to eat all I want on this trip," defiantly munching at another plum. "What in blazes?"

A lurch of the ship sent showering down upon him some magazines that Helen had towed above the life preservers.

"I thought they'd be out of the way up there," hastily she gathered them up. "Oh, here's an article I wanted you to read—Card Sharks on Ocean Liners. About professional gamblers who makes their living on these big boats."

"Huh, that's an old story. Don't worry, they won't get a chance to trim me. Never play cards with anybody I don't know. Where's my slippers?"

But you don't know the Dalmers. Aren't they under your bed? You only met him this morning in the smoking room."

"Oh, Dalmer's all right. His makeup is a little heavy but he's a good fellow. I can spot a bounder a mile off. Where the Sam Hill are those slippers?"

"They must have been shoved back. Poking under his bed with a coat hanger, she dislodged his slippers from behind a suitcase.

"That thing open?" Warren scowled up at the ventilator in the top of their cabin. "Blows right on my head."

Reluctantly Helen pulled the cord that closed the shaft. The porthole was open, but as always her greed for air was insatiable.

"Oh, I hope it's not going to be rough," at an ominous lurch.

"Rougher it is the better I sleep" as he slumped into bed. Then grimly: "If that youngster wakes me in the morning there'll be trouble!"

Their shoes put out, the door bolted

A BLUNDER, OR WORSE?

Who has blundered? We are now told that the Senate threw out the Canadian National Branch lines program, because it outlined the policy for the coming three years, whereas they could only pass upon estimates for one year. We are also told that the matter came before the Senate in the closing days of the session, thus prohibiting a full discussion of this year's plans and providing for them (all or none could alone be dealt with). We are told a number of other things,—we wonder how many of them are true, and how many are political fabrications.

There appears to be plenty of wisdom in drawing up a program of work for the next three years—nothing could be more logical,—we at least know whether or not to go out and develop the farms and resources in the areas affected. But with that three year period program it should be possible to better the estimate for the current year, and prepare the same in proper form for presentation to parliament.

A perusal of the several thousand pages of Hansard will reveal the enormous amount of time that has been wasted during the present session of futile debates. Why could not some of this time been spent in matters of constructive national importance?

Possibly we may never learn the real cause, but we will remember this failure or betrayal (call it which you will) for a long time to come.

FOUR THINGS ARE NEEDED

"There are four things our country needs—faith, hope, love and work" said Stanley Baldwin, the British Premier. He was speaking of the old country doubtless, but the truth of his remark is equally applicable to the Dominion of Canada, and to our own district. A real old fashioned faith in God, a faith in our country, a faith in our fellow man, and a faith in ourselves. Such a faith with the knowledge that we are under the present situation enjoying a higher standard of living than our grandparents, should give us a reasonable and courageous hope for the future. A real, honest, brotherly love for our neighbours and for our country will sweeten our thoughts and stir us to the material expression of the moral qualities of faith, hope and love in real good old fashioned work—work for ourselves and families, work for our communities, work for our province, and work for our dominion.

Yes, Baldwin, you're right when you say "There are four things this country needs—faith, hope, love and work."

PROGRESS TO PROSPERITY

More real progress has been made toward the ultimate prosperity of this district has been made this year than in any preceding one. Whilst we have been hearing on every hand "Money is tight," there has been a reformation in our spending habits that will in no small measure tend to bring a return of prosperity. Never a year has past when there has been such a small increase in the total indebtedness of the district, nor has there been more conservative and scientific expenditures made, but on the other hand the amount of debt reduction has not been as great as desired.

It has been said that the community has sunken into a state of "benumbence" and that efforts have been continued for the past while not because a hope of final success was apparent, but because there was no escape. Such was the view of the pessimists. There are now many signs that the day of the pessimist is drawing to its close.

The return to prosperity will, however, be a long road. The optimist will by no means have it all his own way. Even with the best of harvests this and the next two years, and with world conditions as they are, we may not expect high prices for our products; so granted the best of harvests this and the next two years we can only expect profits from the well managed farms. That under present conditions profits may be made is testified by skilful, observant and non-plunging farmers, who believe more in the policy "slow but sure" and "pay as you go" rather than speed with excessive borrowing and often consequent disaster.

RULES OF THE ROAD

The recent automobile smash near Chauvin draws public attention to the necessity of observing the rules of the road. There is great laxness on the part of a number of our local drivers in the observation of the few, (but necessary) rules that have been incorporated in the provincial laws. So much of our travelling is done on country trails that the average local driver neglects to keep to the right when in town and he turns his car round regardless of beings in the centre of a block. Many drivers are slow to turn to the right when passing and are niggardly in the amount of room they allow the approaching car. Too little use is made of the horn when entering upon sections of trail where the view is obscured by trees.

Auto drivers should remember that ladies still have a right to drive on our roads and trails, and that children must often drove the pony back and forth to school.

the curtain drawn back from the port-hole over her berth, Helen finally in bed switched off the light.

She loved the nights on a steamer. Lying in a snug, warm berth, listening to the roar of the sea always brought a luxurious sense of security.

But now, the twelve dollars, and the further possible losses tomorrow, shadowed her thoughts.

It would be useless to beg Warren not to pay. He would call her a "rotten sport" to want to back out because they had lost. Nor would he ask to lower the stakes.

Her troublesome thoughts were finally succumbing to the lull of the waves when she was aroused by voices from the deck.

"Here's a couple of chairs. I want another cigarette before we go down. Tiresome evening. We earned the twelve."

The Dalmers! Helen lay rigid. A moment's silence, then the cracking of chairs as they settled beneath the port-hole.

"Got another match? yes, that was said slow. We'll speed it up tomorrow and make it five cents a point. He'll stand for that."

The next second, every nerve quivering, Helen was by Warren's berth trying to arouse him from his stentorian slumber.

"Sh'h, don't speak," she whispered just listen."

"What makes you think he has money?" came Mrs Dalmer's querulous voice. "We may be wasting our time."

"Oh, he's good for four or five hundred. That's only chicken feed, but we're down pretty low. Not much doing on this boat. Lots of tightwads."

"Don't don't, they may hear you," whispered Helen to Warren as with a muttered oath, he started towards the porthole.

"There's that man in the de luxe suite. What's his name?"

"Morley. Yes he has the coin, but he's card shy—won't play. Somebody must have tipped him off. We'd better stick to Curtis. He's the egotistical cock-sure kind—they're always easy marks."

"Well, we'll have to double on every hand. We can't make much at even five a point."

"Watch me handle him tomorrow, Thought we'd better go slow the first game. Now, don't forget the signals. Five hearts push your hairpin in on your left side—with three honors the right side. Your powder puff for spades Left ear ring diamonds—right no trumps. You got me mixed on that tonight."

"You're always changing—no wonder I get mixed. We should peep the same signals."

"Yes, and have everybody on to us. Now, if you loaf this trip we'll land in Paris without a sou. I've only thirty-seven dollars besides the twelve we won tonight. Wonder if Curtis would stand for ten cents a point?"

Shaking off Helen's restraining hold on his pajamas, with an explosive snort Warren thrust his head and shoulders through the porthole.

"When you two crooks decide just how you're going to trim me—maybe you'll let us get some sleep!"

A stifled feminine scream. Then silence. An excruciating silence.

"Ha-ha, Curtis!" Mr Dalmer was the first to speak, "just a little practical joke and you bit. We knew this

"You, did eh?" roared Warren. "You big stiff! I'll come out there and paste you. Now, if either of you touch a card for the rest of this voyage I'll report you to the captain. You know what that'll mean. Now, beat it!"

With Helen tugging at his pajamas he leaned further out of the porthole as the Dalmers made an ignominious retreat.

"Not such easy picking as you thought," he bellowed after them. "Good for four or five hundred, eh! Well, it'll take a cleverer pair than you to trim me. It's going to be a lean trip for you two vultures!"

"Oh-oh!" gasped Helen, dropping weakly on the bed as he turned from the porthole.

"Guess that'll hold em for a while. Wish you could have seen their faces when I loomed over 'em. So I'm an easy mark, eh? Guess they've changed their little game for this trip."

"Oh, I—I can't help but feel sorry for them," breathed Helen. "I didn't quite trust them, but I didn't think they were professional card sharps. What if I'd been asleep—and not heard them?"

"I'd have got wise to that pair," as always depreciating her. "I was mighty suspicious tonight—the way those cards ran. Their hands fitted too darn well. But it was worth a few dollars to lead them on."

And only a few moments before he had stoutly declared that Dalmer was "all right." But of this inconsistency Helen tactfully failed to remind him.

Instead, she tucked the covers about him and kissed his tumbled hair with an adulatory:

"You were wonderful, dear, the way you roared at them."

"Yes, that was rich!" he chuckled, complacently. "Got 'em bagged and labelled. I'll see they lay low for the rest of this trip. That fathead'll be sorry he ever tried to trim me!"

Laura: "We were standing alone in the conservatory when he suddenly kissed me. In my anger I cried 'What do you mean?'"

Ann: "And what did he say for himself?"

Laura: "He simply said, 'I'll show you!'"

Ann: "Well?"

Laura: "He did."

Ribstone Womens Institute Notes

The regular meeting of the R.W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. M. McCrea July 7th at 2:30 p.m.. District Convenor, Mrs. Lasell of Wainwright and her Secretary Mrs. Morrison of Greenshields were present, also Mrs. Hallett Edgerton representative. The president opened the meeting. All singing "O, Canada" and reciting the creed.

After the business of the meeting was finished the president called on the district convenor to address the meeting. Mrs. Lasell gave a splendid address on Canadianization which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. At the close of the meeting a representatives meeting was held, and special arrangements for the District Convention to be held in Ribstone were made. Mrs. M. McCrea; Mrs. L. L. Pound and Mrs. R. Morrison were put in charge of the program.

At the close a sumptuous lunch was served by the ladies; after which all repaired to the lawn to have their pictures taken. The crowd then forming a ring around the president and singing "O She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "God Save the King." closed an afternoon thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Ribstone W. I. Lawn Social

The Lawn Social given by the Ribstone Women's Institute was a success Everybody being on hand by two o'clock. Mrs. G. Burton who was in charge of the Sports and kept the games going fast and furious, and many a hearty laugh rang out from old and young.

Horse shoe was the favorite game of the men they getting so interested in it that they played on through a shower of rain regardless of wet shirt sleeves. At 5:30 the call for supper was given and the rush was made for the rink where the ladies were kept busy. Children's races were called for after supper and the little ones were made happy. An interesting Base Ball game was played. Majored men against the single men. Game ending in a tie. Basket ball was also one of the sports of the evening, and caused a great deal of merriment, at about ten o'clock the tired folk went home all well contented with the afternoon.

The money taken in amounted to $54.60; expenses were $26.85 leaving a profit of $27.75

Do what you think is right and don't worry about what other folks say.

GIVE US THE NEWS

We presume there never was a newspaper in any locality that gave all the local happenings, it is often that some one comes or goes that the reporter does not see. It happens that the family is missed several times. They get the impression that the editor does not care to mention them. This is a mistake. In most country towns the local work is the hardest work connected with a newspaper. A man may be a good editorial writer, but a flat failure in the local work, and vice versa. Personals and local happenings can't be clipped from other papers, not by a jugful. It takes physical as well as mental exertion to get out one or two columns of local news in a town of this size. Most people take a local paper to get the local happenings. Don't be afraid to tell the editor or reporter that you have friends visiting you. There are lots of people who are interested in your friends. You owe it as a duty then to let your friends know of their doings. Perhaps you think the paper shows partiality, but just see if the paper doesn't treat you right if you give it a chance.

are planted rows of apple and plum trees in alternation, each eight feet apart. The space between is used for the cultivation of small fruits such as Everbearing strawberries, raspberries and gooseberries, which do infinitely better for the protection thus afforded. It has been fully demonstrated at Scott that local farmers in this district can be assured of a good supply of small fruits and rhubarb if they follow this method of culture. It may later be proved that apples and a variety of wild plums may also be grown successfully.

The six year cycle of culture for the grain fields has been demonstrated to be at once profitable and practicable. This method was fully explained to the Chauvin party. The first year is occupied by a thorough summerfallow; the second year a crop of wheat is grown on this land; the third year a second crop of wheat is grown on spring plowing; the fourth year oats are sown on spring plowing with these oats a seeding of western rye grass or bromegrass is made, the oats giving a crop and acting as a nurse to the grass crop; the fifth year a crop of hay is taken off; the sixth year another crop of hay is taken off and summerfallow completes the circle. By taking a crop of hay and summerfallowing in the sixth year you again commence the circle which recurs each five years thereafter.

There have been a large number of these rotations, or circles, experimented with, but this one has been found the most practicable and profitable. The only drawback is in the use of the bromegrass which frequently requires two plowings to ensure its elimination.

A number of good bacon type hogs were to be seen. A first cross between a Yorkshire and Berkshire produces the most serviceable type for bacon and give good litters. It has been found that those fed buttermilk and chop are more thrifty than those fed other things.

Over 200 head of sheep are kept on the farm. One ram having given a clip of 19 pounds of wool. The Lannouillet sheep produce a wool which gets a premium of 10 per cent on the market but the Cheviot sheep appeared to the Chauvin party as the most desirable type for our district on account of their superior hardiness.

The Scott officials made every effort to give the Chauvin party all the information they desired, and certainly the visitors appreciated the trouble that was taken on their behalf.

Bishop Lloyd To Visit Chauvin: August 3rd

The Lord Bishop of the (Anglican) Diocese of Saskatchewan, the Rt. Rev. G. E. Lloyd, will visit Chauvin Anglican Mission on Friday, August 3rd. The details of his Lordship's visit have yet to be decided, but it will include the service of Baptism, at which I hope to see all those children who are not yet baptised into the Church of Christ. Parents please note. A lecture will probably be given by Dr. Lloyd in the evening.

Editors of Canada's Weekly Newspapers Photographed at Halifax.

No annual convention trip which the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association has ever taken has been more memorable than that which has just been completed. Newspaper men from all parts of Canada—from as far west as Vancouver Island, B. C., and as far north as The Pas, Manitoba met together at Toronto to board the special Canadian Pacific train that was to take them by a series of easy stages to Halifax, Nova Scotia. The editors and their wives and some children numbered altogether about 180, and it took a train of twelve cars to accommodate them. The train was made up of eight standard sleepers, two diners, a baggage car, and a compartment observation car which added greatly to the comfort of the trip. The train was manned by a picked crew of operators and stewards and was accompanied by W. B. Howard, Assistant General Passenger Agent, and Mr. J. Harry Smith, Canadian Press Representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The success of the trip was to a large extent due to the organizing ability of E. Roy Sayles, Manager of the Association.

Pulled by one of Canada's finest locomotives the train made a special run to Montreal arriving there ahead of time schedule, and the party was joined by many Quebec members.

The next stop was at Fredericton, N. B. where the citizens joined in a

The Lieutenant Governor, and Premier Veniot of New Brunswick gave a reception and dance in the Legislative Chamber, and the party moved on to St. John where similar hospitality was enjoyed. On the Canadian Pacific steamer "Princess" the party enjoyed a delightful sail to Digby, N. S., from where the trip through the Annapolis Valley to Halifax was made over the Dominion Atlantic Railway. The wonderful orchards and dike-lands of the Evangeline country were looking their best and a stop was made to visit old

Fort Anne at Annapolis Royal where much of the early history of Eastern

Canada was made. Kentville's fine band turned out with the population to greet the newspaper people, and here as in most other places touched, citizens came with autos to give the visitors a glimpse of the surrounding country.

The ancient city of Halifax outdid herself in hospitality, and here the annual convention was held. At one of the meetings it was decided that the annual trip would next year be to England and France. The members will thus have a chance to visit the great Empire Exhibition at Wembley. The return trip was made via Canadian National to Quebec where the party was entertained by the Canadian Pacific at the famous Chateau Frontenac. The newly elected president of the Association is J. B. Fortin, of "L'Eclaireur," Beauceville, Que.

The Funny Side Of Life

The telephone bell rang with anxious persistence, and the doctor answered the call of a tired husband.

"Yes?" he said.

"Oh, doctor," said a worried voice, "something has happened to my wife. Her mouth seems set and she can't say a word."

"Why, she may have lockjaw," said the medical man.

"Do you think so? Well if you are this way some time next week you might drop in and see what you can do for her."

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Father was telling of a quarrel between two men in which he had interfered. One had swung a shovel aloft shouting. "I'll knock your brains out!"

"It was at this moment," he explained proudly, "that I stepped between them."

Little Johnnie, had been listening round-eyed with excitement, very angry at the idea of anybody daring to threaten his daddy. Now he burst out:

"He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he, father?"

HIS HYMN OR ATE

The stranger was exaggerating as usual. After his tallest story the silent man in the corner became impatient.

"I had an adventure like that once" he said. "It was in the jungle. A lion came for me. I saw his great mouth gaping wide. I was powerless, rooted to the spot. Nearer and nearer he came. It was awful."

He paused. "And what happened then?" asked the teller of tall stories.

"Well," said the other, "I just put my arm into the lion's mouth, caught hold of his tail, and turned the brute inside out. But another lion came up—and I was done for."

"He ate me."

"He ate me."

CRUSHED

The youth had only just left college, and his ambition was high.

At home the all-engrossing subject was the young man's career, and he was discussing with his parents which profession stood most in need of his genius.

The father's idea of his son's ability was low.

"I think," said the old man, "that you had better adorn one of the stools in my office."

The young man drew himself up, and his collar grew tight as he strove to swallow his righteous anger.

Folding his arms across his chest, he asked: "Am I a dog?"

"No, not yet, but you'll grow," came the response.

COULDN'T BE CAUGHT

An Irishman, passing a shop where a notice was displayed saying that everything was sold by the yard, thought he would play a joke on the shopkeeper, so he entered and asked for a yard of milk. The shopkeeper without any hesitation, dipped his fingers in a bowl of milk and drew a line a yard long on the counter.

Pat, not wishing to be caught in his own trap, asked the price.

"Sixpence," was the reply.

"All right, sorr," said Pat. "Roll it up I'll take it."

Magistrate: "Are you the man who makes these allegations?"

"Yes, sir!" I am the alligator."

Jack: "There's a new baby boy up at our house."

Pat: "Named him yet?"

"Yes. We're going to call him Bill. He came on the first day of the month."

Pensions Official: "One grandfather living? Is he on your father's or mother's side?"

The Applicant: "Oh, 'e varies, sir; 'e sticks up for both on 'em—a sort o' nootral."

Canada Faces the Future With Confidence

CANADIANS have always been noted for courage, optimism and faith in their country.

Canada was not built up by pessimists, nor will Canada continue to develop if her people allow themselves to become croakers and grouchers. Canada is fundamentally an agricultural country. We have a soil and climate which can grow the world's finest agricultural products.

Canadian farmers who have earned the capital invested in their farms out of profits in farming are numbered in thousands. These successful farmers have paid off their mortgages, stocked their barns and stables, bought their machinery, made a good living and brought up their families. It meant hard work, but today they are independent.

The quantity and the quality of the products and the cost of production in competitive countries is beyond our control.

Prices of agricultural products are regulated by world supply and demand.

Hence, decreasing production will not help the Canadian farmer.

for feed, labor, interest and depreciation, the net profit per pig was still $4.63.

Profits from Sheep

As money-makers, sheep are hard to beat. In every Province from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia are found many flocks returning generous profits to their owners.

Poultry Pays

Poultry makes money for those who adopt modern methods, whether East or West. Little Prince Edward Island markets co-operatively in carlots, shipping annually upwards of one million dozen eggs. The British Columbia Co-operative Poultry Men's Exchange markets in the same way, thus saving ruinous glut in their local market.

There is a market for good Canadian horses, whether light or draught.

Grow Seed

Canada's Northern grown seed possesses extra vitality. There is a large market for it to the south. Canada exports seed potatoes, but imports other seeds. She has the opportunity to grow seeds for herself and for export.

The Future

Ten years from now the pessimists of today will have been forgotten. Britain has removed the embargo against our cattle. She wants our beef and bacon, our cheese, butter, eggs and apples, our wheat and flour. As the population of the United States increases, she will compete less and less against us on the British market. Eventually, she will herself be an importer of many other food stuffs besides wheat from this country.

Canada has the men, the climate, the land, the stock and the potential markets necessary for agricultural success. Let us farm with all the industry and science we can muster. Let's get to work and pay our debts. Canada is moving forward with confidence in its future. Let us keep going ahead.
